

ABSTRACT

A method of audio transmission over a network that includes setting audio frames in UDP packets and overlapping the audio frames by at least one of each UDP packet.